PREFACE

The first volume of the transcription of the Clifton Parish Registers was printed in 1987 and the second and third volumes in 1989.

This present volume is a transcription of the last three years of the third register containing burials and baptisms 1761-1763, the whole of the fourth register containing baptisms and burials 1764-1812 and the whole of the fifth register containing marriages 1767-1812.

All the registers after 1812 are printed on paper and are on microfilm in the Bristol Record Office and it will not be necessary to transcribe them.

This work was carried out during evening classes at the Bristol Record Office arranged by the University of Bristol Department of Extras Mural Studies. I am most grateful to Professor Patrick McGrath, Mr John Williams and Mrs Sheila Lang for all their help and patience in helping me to read the badly damaged parchment and some of the 18th century signatures which were extremely difficult to decipher.

INTRODUCTION

CLIFTON

Clifton is now a suburb of Bristol but at the time that these registers were written it was a small village in Gloucestershire about one mile west of the city of Bristol.

In the late 18th century the population of Clifton began to increase. Many houses were built, partly to give accommodation to the visitors to the Hotwells Spa and partly to house some of rich merchants who were moving away from the city to the more healthy village on the hill above the river Avon.

A slow increase in the population of Clifton between 1767 and 1812 can be seen on the charts of marriages and baptisms during this period, figure 1 and 2 pp iv. John Moore (1) gives the population of Clifton in 1770 as 1,365 and in 1801 as 4,455.

During this period a great deal of damage was being done to the Avon Gorge by quarrying. John Evans states that ´Numbers of men are constantly employed in blowing up the rocks with gunpowder whence the stone is carried coastways to Devon and Cornwall, while the lime is packed in barrels and exported as far as the West-Indies´. The quarrymen and lime-workers are not mentioned in the registers although a very large number must have been employed and lime kilns must also have abounded in the area.

Of the occupations that are given the following help to picture life in Clifton at the time - accountant, architect, physician, surgeon, schoolmaster, merchant, writer, soldier, chemist, organist, excise officer, yeoman, hairdresser, mercer, tailor, linen-draper, grocer, wine-hooper, brewer, cornmeasurer, joiner, brush-maker, rope-maker, cabinet-maker, coach-maker, gardener, inn-holder and mariner.

A better picture can be obtained from Matthews Directory (3) where the occupations given in Clifton and Hotwells include, as well as the above, land surveyor, portrait painter, watch-maker, milliner, haberdasher, hosier, shoe-maker, perfumer, baker, butcher, poulterer, confectioner, vintner, wine merchant, soap and candle-maker, ironmonger, umbrella-maker, builder, tiler and plasterer, mason, glazier, painter, carpenter, sadler, livery stable-keeper and pawnbroker.

In Hotwells there were in addition nailers, coopers, ship-builders, a shipwright, timber and deal merchants, mast-makers, a lighter-master, pump and engine makers, rope-makers, a dock-master and, at the Longrooms in Hotwells, a Master of Ceremonies and a caretaker. There was also a glass-maker, who no doubt worked at the bottle making glass house in Hotwells road (2). All the Attorneys-at-law gave Bristol addresses but presumably some of them lived in Clifton although they worked in the city. Army and naval officers were also listed in the registers and the directory.

Until the mid-18th century vessels lay in the mud at low tide but during the period covered by these registers the floating harbour was built. It was suggested by William Champion in 1767 and completed by 1809 (4). This increased the commerce in the city and therefore increased the number of merchants, some of whom bought houses in Clifton. Also many of the hundreds of labourers employed during the construction of the docks must have lived in Clifton and Hotwells and must have been among those who were married and buried and had their children baptised in Clifton.

THE REGISTERS

Details concerning the Clifton Registers have been given in the earlier transcriptions of the 1538-1681 and 1722-1760 Registers. The main problem in this transcription, as in the previous ones, is that the registers were damaged in 1940, due to enemy action and therefore in places they are extremely difficult to read. Some pages are illegible.

The fourth register contains 71 pages of parchment, which have been badly damaged by heat. This has been repaired, attached to linen and bound in a modern hard cover.
The fifth register contains four groups of paper pages, each page has a printed format and is handwritten in the spaces provided. There is an index of the husbands' names at the beginning of the book and the whole is bound in a nineteenth century leather cover.

In Clifton Parish churchyard there are tombstones to a number of people who do not appear in the list of burials. This may be due to the names being illegible, for example Henry Rogers and Susanna Macknemara in 1765, but others are definitely omitted, such as Mary Blanekley and Jane Wilkins in 1768, Lucy Engly in 1772 and John Jones, Evelyn Pierrepont and Sarah Bridges in 1787. This poses the question of how accurately these registers were kept. A chart, figure 3, p v. shows the number of people buried each year between 1767 and 1812, those who were rich enough to have tombstones or be buried in the vaults of the church are shown by shading.

(4) John Latimer, The Annals of Bristol in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, Bristol, 1893 & 1887.

The reader can see the proportion of the richer people buried in Clifton against the total number buried. Is it possible that some people such as newborn babies were not entered into the register when they were buried?.

The register of baptisms also show some omissions; for example John and Margaret Wolf had two boys baptised Isaac in 1792 and 1794 and Michael and Grace Ancrum had two Samuels in 1794 and 1796. In these cases the firstborn was not entered in the burial register. It is unlikely that the second boy would have been given the same name had the first survived.

In the Bishop´s Transcripts of May 1809 George Ray´s baptism is entered but the name is not found in the register. This indicates that some pages of the burial register are not the original ones and further indication of this fact is shown in the Bishop´s Transcripts of 1811 when ages are given but these are not found in the burial register.

Some of the names mentioned in the registers give enough details to form a small picture of some of the inhabitants of Clifton. The parish clerk, William Webb married Mary Jecock on March 30 1779; she died in 1784 aged 54; William continued as parish clerk and signed as a witness to many marriages until the age of 89. He died a year later and was buried on February 3 1806. Lucy Lewis must have worked in the church in some capacity as she was called on many times from November 1783 onwards to act as a witness although she could only sign her name with a cross. On one occasion in 1796 she was helped to write her name in full. Finally by 1804 she had learned to write her name, although rather badly, and she continued to sign, occasionally reverting to a cross, until after William Webb´s death. The next parish clerk, James Hunt, used Lucy Lewis as a witness at first and then stopped. The reader feels very sorry that Lucy should have lost one source of income until her name appears as a bride. She was married by licence to Thomas Davis in June 1809, proudly signing her own name. She had obviously been busy elsewhere and happily in this way she obtained another source of income.

The minister, John Taylor, officiated at most marriages between 1767 and 1790, and had the help of Thomas Spencer for the next two years. John Taylor was seldom absent before 1790 and appears to have been a conscientious minister. His son James was described on his tombstone in 1847 to have been incumbent of the parish for 52 years when he died. After James was appointed in 1795 he officiated regularly for the first six years, although he had the help of John Whalley Master. After 1802 most marriages were carried out by Henry Hawes and after 1809 by John Hensman. There is no record that James Taylor officiated at any marriage between 1801 and the end of 1812 when this marriage register ends.

NOTES ON THE TRANSCRIPTION.

This is a transcription of the fourth and fifth Registers and the last three years of the third register.

In order to make this a transcription for 1761-1812, the last three years of burials and baptisms have been taken from the 1722-1763 register and included with this volume. The fourth register is for Burials and Baptisms 1764-1812. The fifth register is for Marriages 1767-1812.

In this transcription abbreviations are used for the more common Christian names. If abbreviations are used in the original they are followed by colons; all other abbreviations have been made by the editor. Some punctuation has been inserted for clarity; for example when occupations are given. For the same reason ampersands have been used for the witnesses in the Marriage Register.

Square brackets have been used where parts of the text are illegible or where the word inserted is conjectural. These brackets have also been used for all additions to or explanations of the text by the editor.

Marriage Register 1767 - 1812

In this transcription an example of the formula used has been written in full for the first entry of each group, unless the format remains unchanged as in the fourth group. For all the other entries only the partner´s names, places, dates, ministers and witnesses are transcribed.

The numbers in the indexes for names, witnesses, ministers, places and the subject index to this Marriage Register refer to page numbers.

Burials and Baptisms Register 1764 - 1812

In this transcription each year´s baptisms and burials have been given serial numbers, which of course were not in the original text. 497B-548B refer to burials, 1761-1812 and 497C-548C refer to baptisms 1761-1812.

The spelling of the headings - Baptisms and Burials - have been modernised to make the text easier to read.

The numbers used in the index of names and the general index to this Burial and Baptismal Register refer to the serial numbers, see above.

Aug. 4 - Lately d. at Clifton aged 70 Mrs McCumming w. of Capt Bryce McCumming who was 44 yrs married; she was twice brought to bed at sea; twice lost everything by shipwreck & twice on short allowance of provisions & water. She had perfect recollection of Lady Jane Douglas calling on the Countess of Crawford at Brussels when on her way to Paris to lye in, & the Countess at parting wishing her a happy hour. She was in Pensacola during the great Douglas case, or it is probable she might have been called on as a corroborating evidence.

Aug. 18 - d. on board the Atlas, in Kingroad on her passage from Barbadoes to the Hotwells, for the recovery of her health, Miss Proby, d. of the Dean of Litchfield.]
